

THE COMPASSIONATE FRIENDS

Supporting Family After a Child Dies

The Compassionate Friends Timeline: 1968—2009

1968	Reverend Simon Stephens became assistant chaplain at Warwickshire Hospital in Coventry, England.
May 1968	Kenneth Lawley, 11, was struck by a car while riding his bike and was taken to Warwickshire Hospital. While offering comfort to Kenneth's parents, Joe and Iris Lawley, Reverend Stephens mentioned another boy in the same hospital, Billy Henderson, who was dying of an illness.
May 23, 1968	Kenneth Lawley died followed by Billy Henderson a few days later.
May 1968	The Lawleys sent flowers to the Hendersons following Billy's death. At the encouragement of Reverend Stephens, the families met and became friends, as well as a source of support for one another. Reverend Stephens suggested they include other bereaved parents, and the Rattigan family was invited to join.
January 28, 1969	The first meeting of "The Society of Compassionate Friends" was held in Warwickshire Hospital with Reverend Stephens, Betty Rattigan, Joe and Iris Lawley, and Bill and Joan Henderson in attendance.
October 1970	Gabrielle Shamres and her mother, Paula, were involved in an auto/train accident in Florida and 10-year-old "Gabi" was killed.
May 1971	Paula and Arnold Shamres read an article in TIME magazine about the British Society of Compassionate Friends and contacted Reverend Stephens.
November 1971	Reverend Stephens visited with Paula and Arnold in Florida to discuss developing Compassionate Friends groups in the United States. Simon appeared on the Today Show resulting in 18,000 letters forwarded to the Shamres.
Spring 1972	Reverend Stephens' book, Death Comes Home , was published.
Fall 1972	The first "branch" of The Compassionate Friends in the U.S. was developed and met in south Florida under the direction of the Paula and Arnold Shamres.
1972-1977	Approximately 40 branches developed throughout the U.S., primarily in Florida and the Midwest. Reverend Don Balster and his wife, Marian, read Death Comes Home after their son Mark died in 1973. They contacted Reverend Stephens and asked for help with starting a branch in Hinsdale, Illinois.
July 1977	The Phil Donahue program featured Harriet Schiff, author of The Bereaved Parent . Chicago area TCF members were invited to be in the audience. There was overwhelming response to two shows filmed. A few months later, the first national newsletter was printed. Within a year, 126 new branches, now called chapters, were formed.
April 1978	TCF was incorporated in Illinois. The first national conference was held in Hinsdale, Illinois. Bylaws were adopted, a national board of directors was formed, and the first officers were elected.

June 1978	The TCF national office was established in Oak Brook, Illinois, and staffed by volunteers.
July 1978	The Phil Donahue programs with Harriet Schiff were rerun, generating hundreds of calls to the new national office. Once again, interest in developing chapters surged throughout the country.
